Contents

Foreword ix
Preface xiii

1 A New Vision of Science in Education 1
   The Importance of Teaching Science Well 2
   What Scientists Really Do 3
   The Language of Science 4
   Rethinking Children’s Capacity for Scientific Understanding 6
   Science Class: SEEING OURSELVES IN MEASUREMENT 9
   Science Class: MEASURING AND GRAPHING HEIGHT 11
   Building on Knowledge, Interest, and Experience 14
   For Further Reading 16

2 Four Strands of Science Learning 17
   The Four Strands 18
   Science Class: BIODIVERSITY IN A CITY SCHOOLYARD 22
   Examining the Four Strands in Instruction 28
   The Interrelated Nature of the Four Strands 32
   Science as Practice: Doing and Learning Together 34
   For Further Reading 36

3 Foundational Knowledge and Conceptual Change 37
   Identifying a Shared Base of Understanding in Young Children 38
   Seeing Nature in New Ways 41